

ABSTRACT

The invention concerns door retaining means comprising at least a retention pin fixed to the side-member provided in the door lining opposite the pin when the door is closed.